Little Mistakes?

I do a lot of writing and publishing and am often reminded of the typing, spelling, and grammatical mistakes I make. No matter how hard we try, we are going to make mistakes. Sometimes our errors can hurt others even though we did not intend to be hurtful. And, sometimes, our mistakes can be rather humorous as in the case of some of these "bulletin bloopers" we've gleaned from other sources...

"Remember in prayer the many who are sick of our church and community."

"Potluck supper: prayer and medication to follow."

"Don't let worry kill you off – let the church help."

Unintentional mistakes will always be a part of our existence. It is good if we can laugh at the human plight and "roll with the punches" when we make such errors. Yet, when we're on the receiving end, what may seem small and insignificant to others can become huge and have a major effect upon us. Of course, we recognize that some mistakes must not be taken lightly.

The Christian obligation in dealing with mistakes is proclaimed by the apostle Paul: "And be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, just as God in Christ also has forgiven you" (Eph. 4:32). Let's put this into practice.
