Nails in the Fence

Once upon a time, there was a little boy with a quick temper. His father gave him a bag of nails and said, "Drive a nail into the back of this fence every time you lose your temper."

On the first day, the boy drove thirty-seven nails into the fence. With each passing day, the boy controlled his anger a little more and drove fewer nails into the fence. He discovered that it was easier to hold his temper than to drive nails into the fence.

Finally, the day came when the boy didn't lose his temper at all. He told his father about it, and the father said, "Each day you hold your temper, pull out one nail."

After many days the young boy proudly told his father that all the nails had been removed. The father and son went out to inspect the fence. The father said, "You have done well, my son, but look at all the holes in the fence. Words said in anger have a similar effect. Angry words leave scars on people's souls no matter how many times we say, 'I'm sorry.'"

*He who is slow to anger is better than the mighty,
And he who rules his spirit, than he who captures a city*
–Proverbs 16:32
