World vs Individual

God tried to change this world. He saw "that the wickedness of man was great on the earth, and that every intent of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually" (Gen. 6:5). He flooded the earth and started over with an ark full of animals and one family. A few years after the flood, God made another course correction by confusing the languages of men (Gen. 11).

Shortly after that, God made a covenant with a man and his descendants. He made them into a great nation and gave them a land of prosperity. Unfortunately, these chosen people turned to idolatry and immorality. After years of patiently calling them to repent, He was forced to send them into exile (2 Kings 17; 2 Chron. 36:20-21).

When seventy years were complete, God brought them back to the promised land. They seemed to have learned their lesson about worshiping idols; however, when God sent His Son calling them to faith and repentance, they killed Him.

God couldn't change this world. What makes us think we can? Stop trying to change the world. Even God has given up on changing the world. He revealed this to Peter: "... the present heavens and earth are being reserved for fire, kept for the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men...the heavens will pass away with a roar and the elements will be destroyed with intense heat, and the earth and its works will be burned up" (2 Pet. 3:7, 10).

Instead of trying to change the world, let's do all we can do is cultivate our individual faithfulness (Rom. 12:1-2). In the process, we will appear as light which may cause some to seek God (Mt. 5:16). Let's be salt and preserve this world for as long as possible so that sinners have more time to repent. Let's beseech God's patience (2 Pet. 3:9). Finally, let's set our sights on heaven. This world is destined for destruction. Let go of it and reach for heaven (Phil. 3:14).
